Today Magora team is happy to share the achievements of the previous year, as the client satisfaction and positive feedback are the best indicators that we do everything right.

Client Approval on Clutch

An impartial feedback aggregation platform, Clutch, regularly makes the rating of the most reliable and successful software and app development companies globally and locally, in the UK, Europe, Australia and other countries. They collect feedback from real clients and undertake market studies to estimate the quality of services a company offers and help you choose a partner for your development case.

Thanks to the client recognition, you can find Magora among the leaders of the Clutch rating. We are ranked:

- 3d in the UK top mobile app developers;
- 9th in the world top list of mobile app development companies.

You could see us on the list just below the sponsored positions here: clutch.co/uk/app-developers/.
.
Magora also held the top spot in a similar ranking in Australia and Russia.

Highly Estimated on Dribbble

Actions speak louder than words, especially for Dribbble - an inspirational designer platform. Magora's designers are the part of this creative community, where all talented digital artists can share their vision and creativity and estimate the work of others.

We take pride in the fact that our work took high scores not only from the clients but also from professional designers, taking us to the highest positions in the ranking on Dribbble.com, and the number of our followers on Dribbble constantly grows.

Recommended by Business of Apps

In 2017, Magora has also been mentioned among the top app development companies by Business of Apps. This reputed website is designed for people of business to help them discover the mobile software development industry, app monetisation, and online marketing opportunities. It is very important for us to get this unbiased opinion and recommendation, as it confirms our dedication to the clients and the level of competence in software and app development.

Every new day is another chance to help you, our clients, and we are ready to conquer new development heights for you in 2018!

If you have an idea for a project, it is high time to make it happen. Let's write the history of your digital success together!